—The citizens of the city met in mass convention Monday night at the city hall and nominated the following ticket for the several offices for the coming term: Mayor, R. J. Sellers; councilman, Samuel Neely; collector, Nicholas D. Merrill; alderman, 1st ward, Ora Morse; alderman, 2d ward, Otis Biggs.

—The Modern Woodman Cornet Band made their "debut" to the public Friday night at the opera house. Although the weather was bad and promising worse conditions, there was a big audience to greet them as the curtain rolled up, exhibiting fourteen neatly uniformed men with shining instruments and playing music with the precision and emphasis of old time professionals. These boys are doing remarkably well, considering that not one of them had ever made an effort to make a tone ten weeks before—also the prevailing sickness in our community took its toll from the ranks of the band as well. Prof. James Holt, the instructor, deserves much praise for his skill in working this bunch of raw material into a musical aggregation of which any town would be justly proud. The program for the evening was made up of cornet solos by Instructor Holt, and vocal duet by Miss Winifred Hawley and Alma Judy, and a debate on the question, "Resolved, That a Reunion is Better for Craig Than a Chautauqua," decided in favor of the negative. The result of the night was a royal good time by all present, several dollars for the band, and a determination on the part of all present to have both a reunion and a Chautauqua.
